Yellow Fever at New York

New York, Aug 30—[Special]—The Herald says of the yellow fever case in our streets: He was a sailor on a ship from a gulf port or a West Indian Cuban port and was hidden away to avoid detention at quarantine. When it was found that he was about to die and it was understood that the cause of death would be made known and the captain of the ship be in trouble, the poor fellow was carried ashore at night and dropped in the street.

Changing the Color of Flowers

Popular Science Monthly

Our knowledge of the chemistry of vegetable pigments is not yet sufficiently advanced for us to reason the effect of artificial influence upon the color-tone of flowers has not yet received its merited attention. According to my view tannin is an important factor in the generation of vegetable colors. It is found in almost every plant, the petals not excepted, and by the help of the most varying reagents—alkalies, earths, metallic salts, etc.—it assumes the most manifold hues from pale rose to deep black. A darker color is produced in flowers rich in tannin when manured with iron salts, dye black and produce ink. A practical use has been made of this fact in the raising of hortensias and dahlias. The former which in ordinary soil blossomed pale red became transplanted into soil heavily manured with iron ochre or when occasionally watered with a dilute alum solution. English gardeners succeed in growing black dahlias by similar manipulations. It is well known to every florist that a change of location that is a change of light temperature and soil (replanting) occasionally produces new colors, whence it may be deduced that an interrupted nutrition of the flower may under circumstances effect a change of color. We see no valid reason why the well authenticated fact of the change of color produced by manuring with iron oxide therefore changing the nutrition of the plant should not be practically employed by the horticultural gardener.

GENERAL NEWS.

Striking Miners in Ohio Provoke a General Riot.

THE GOVERNOR ORDERS THE MILITIA OUT.

Report of the Agent of the Starving Indians in Montana—Rescue of the Crew of a Wrecked Schooner.

Columbus, Ohio, Aug 31—Reports come from the Hocking valley that the miners in Snake Hollow made an attack on the guards at 2 o'clock this morning and one of the guards was killed and two wounded. The report is that there are about 3000 miners in the number who made the attack, they having come in from the surrounding country. The telegraph lines are all cut, and the sheriffs who are in the vicinity are thus prevented from having communication with the governor, so they could call out the militia. One of the hoppers was burned during the night, entailing a loss of about $4000. No definite information has been received here yet for the reason that communication is cut off. As soon as the wires are repaired communication will be had with the governor direct. The Columbus and Hocking valley officials and the coal companies ran down a special early this morning, and expect further trouble late in the day or to-night.

FROM THE SHERIFF

Columbus, Aug 31—Sheriff McCarty of Athens county sends the following telegram to Governor Hoadly from Buchtel, which is in the neighborhood where the riot occurred last night: "Shooting commenced by the rioters about 2 A. M., and continued until an hour ago. I am not able to judge the number of shots, nor to say how many shots were fired. The firing was general. One guard was shot dead, and two others wounded. The guards returned the fire. I cannot say whether any person was killed or wounded." The sheriff is unable to say how soon another attack will be made. No troops can be forwarded except on an order from the sheriff. The governor is in readiness to receive an order.

At 3 A. M. the guards on duty at Nelsonville No 7 mine were suddenly surrounded by a lot of armed men. In the meantime the coal hoppers were discovered to be on fire. The men had their faces blackened. The telegraph wires are cut in several places through the valley, cutting off communication. A State Journal representative was surrounded and ordered to leave town, or suffer the consequences.

THE KILLED AND INJURED

The name of the man killed during the firing at Snake Hollow is William Hare, an elderly man, and a guard, residing at Logan. Jacob Lift, also of Logan, [illegible] and another guard in the [illegible].

Rioting miners are concentrating to fight at Murray City, and the deputy sheriff in charge there has asked the sheriff for aid. It is thought troops will be called out before morning. At all other points in the valley everything is reported quiet. Murray City is about five miles from Snake Hollow and is not well guarded.

MORE FIRING

Columbus, Aug 31—The rioters are firing on the guards at the Sand Run and Longstreet mines. Both mines have called for help. The militia at Lancaster and Lexington have been ordered to be in readiness for marching orders. Owing to the cutting of wires particulars are obtained with difficulty. Governor Hoadly telegraphed the sheriffs of Athens, Hocking and Perry counties: "All means in your control should be exhausted to suppress the riotous proceedings and protect life and property before the aid of the state is called for."

MILITIA ORDERED OUT

Columbus, Aug 31—On Governor Hoadly's arrival at his office at midnight he received the following:

LOGAN, Ohio

To George Hoadly, Governor

All means in my power are entirely exhausted to suppress the disorder and to protect life and property. The strikers are cutting all the telegraph wires. I am worn out, as I have been going day and night for two months. Please send militia immediately and avoid further bloodshed. The jail is threatened.

J. F. McCARTY, Sheriff of Hocking Co

The governor at once ordered out all of the Fourteenth regiment and the Duffy and the Governor's guards. The Lancaster, Circleville and New Lexington companies replied to Sheriff McCarthy that they were on the way, and asking if more were needed. The Lancaster company being only thirty miles from Logan was sent to that place to guard the jail. One of the leaders of the riot at Snake Hollow last night and one believed to have killed O Hara was arrested and brought to jail at Logan. A mob was coming in town to release him. Special trains have been put on the railroads at the governor's disposal. At a late hour the last wire was cut so that there is no communication with points below Logan except by messengers reaching southern points, and send to the city by circuitous routes. This does not enable the authorities to know what is going on till two or three hours have elapsed, and it is believed that a riot prevails since midnight at certain places. Bankers at Straitsville report that no men are to be found in that town and women refuse to tell their whereabouts. They are believed to be out in the field, according to a general and preconcerted plan. Advices are meager and unsatisfactory.

AN APPEAL FOR TROOPS

Columbus, Aug 31—The sheriff of Hocking county has just sent a telegram asking for troops. The governor arrived at midnight, and the Columbus battalion of the fourteenth regiment has been called to headquarters, and will leave on a special train for the mining district as soon as the train can be secured. Continued firing is reported at Longstreth, and communication by telegraph with that point has been cut off for the past hour.

WILL READ THE RIOT ACT

Coal Center, Pa, Aug 31—To-morrow Sheriff Chambers will read the riot act to the striking miners, and order them to break camp and return to their homes. The men are not disposed to obey the command, and trouble is expected. Nothing of importance transpired to-day.

GENERAL NEWS.

Sensational Reports Condemned

New York, Aug 30—A conference between the officers of the American agricultural association and the International dairy fair association and leading cattle breeders of the country was held here to-day to consider means to be taken to allay the alarm being created by sensational reports on the subject of pleuro-pneumonia among cattle. The address adopted says: "When we consider the great harm done and the little good accomplished by spreading these sensational reports, except as indicated in being made by men who hold offices, we are irresistibly led to grave suspicion of their good faith, fearing that the bureau of animal industry may do the cattle industry of the country a great and irreparable harm. A thorough investigation should be made by the American agricultural association and the International dairy fair association and they should do all in their power to ferret this subject to the bottom."

Washington Notes.

Washington, Aug 30—The acting secretary of the treasury has issued the following circular: Notice is hereby given that the unloading of old rags arriving at ports of the United States from foreign ports, upon and after the 1st prox, is prohibited for three months from that date.

A telegram received at the postoffice department announces the postponement until February next of the international postal congress which was to have assembled in Lisbon October 1. The postponement is probably made on account of the existence of a cholera quarantine in southern Europe.

The estimated decrease of the public debt during August is $9,000,000.

The Recent Storms.

Evansville, Ind, Aug 30—Six bodies have been recovered from the steamer Belmont. A diver will go down in the morning and go to the wreck. It is thought there are several more bodies in the cabin. The damage to corn by the storm spreads for fifty miles around. There are no reports of any lives being lost.

Evansville, Aug 31—A tug has arrived from the wreck of the Belmont. Five bodies were taken out to-day—eleven in all. It is thought all the white bodies have been taken out. There are still a colored woman and a colored child in the wreck.

Whisky Pool Re-established

Cincinnati, Aug 31—Late last night the last name was secured to an agreement which re-establishes the whisky pool. Under the new agreement, which goes into effect to-morrow, and to be in force one year, distillers are not permitted to go beyond 40 per cent of their capacity. Houses not running sell their capacity to the pool at a stipulated price. No member is permitted to buy another's capacity. The running capacity of the pool has been scaled down from 50,000 to 37,000 bushels. The election of officers will be attended to at a meeting to be called soon.

Yellow Fever at New York.

New York, Aug 30—[Special]—The Tribune says: "The difficulty of keeping contagious diseases from getting a foothold in this country is shown by the case of an unknown man found dying of yellow fever on the streets. How he got there, despite of the strict quarantine regulations, no one knows. It is supposed he must have arrived on a vessel from some southern port only an hour or two before he was stricken down. More likely, in view of the sharp watch kept at the narrows he came from the south by rail."

The Coal Miners' Strike

Pittsburg, Aug 30—The miners' camp at Coal Center was devoid of any exciting incidents to-day. It is stated that officers in charge of the mines will next week organize a large posse for the purpose of compelling the strikers to leave. President Costello and Secretary Flannery of the Miners Association were arrested in this city this afternoon on a charge of conspiracy. It is stated that Benjamin F Butler will be retained to defend the miners in the court case.

Arrival of a British War Ship

Newport, R. I., Aug 31—H B M ship North... arrived at Newport this morning from Halifax. It being Sunday, no salute was fired ... called to pay their respects. Vice Admiral Sir John E. Commerell in command of the squadron. Admiral Luce and Captain Selfridge called later, and their visits were returned. Admiral Commerell paid his respects to the president on board the Dispatch.

Cotton Spindles Stopped.

New York, Aug 30—The Journal of Commerce says that 4,763,000 cotton spindles have been stopped two weeks during this month, showing a decrease in production of 1,484,100 pieces of cotton cloth, mostly brown and bleached cottons and making 47,470 cases of thirty pieces each, and this number of spindles is being increased every day.

A Short Hop Crop.

New York, Aug 30—[Special]—The Times' Utica, New York, special says: Hop-picking has been going on this week. Inquiry of Oneida county growers confirms the forecasts of a short crop. Tracy W. Conger reports a shortage of 30 per cent. Sylvester Gridley has less than 600 pounds per acre, against 1200 a year ago. A few sales are made of Humphrey at 25 ...

STARVING INDIANS

Report of the Agent of the Piegans in Montana—Supplies Badly Needed

Washington, Aug 30—In regard to the reports of the distressed condition of the Piegan Indians, acting Commissioner Stevens to-day stated that the Indian office is in no wise to blame for the condition of affairs. At the last session of congress the commissioner had requested an appropriation of $[illegible] for the maintenance of these Indians. This amount was in the opinion of the bureau the smallest sum that would suffice for the purpose but the house cut the estimate down to $40,000. The senate increased the appropriation to $50,000 and this money, although used to the best advantage, is not enough to feed the Indians during the year.

THE AGENT'S REPORT

On August 11 agent Allen made the following report upon the subject: "Under date of June 4 1884 I wrote your office reviewing the estimates for supplies made by my predecessor, John Young, for the year ending June 30 1885 and showed that the amount of meat estimated for was only one-fourth the quantity required and flour only about one third the quantity required. He asked for 500,000 pounds of beef, gross, and only 400,000 pounds have been purchased, less than one-fifth rations or less than five ounces per day for each person. The flour purchased for the present fiscal year gives less than six ounces per day to each person. On such an allowance, having nothing else, how could they avoid starving? I telegraphed you that I have supplies for present needs. If I were to divide 400,000 pounds of beef, gross, by fifty two, the number of weeks in a year, and issue only that amount the needs could not be met, but I am issuing more and will continue to do so while I have it on hand, for these Indians shall not die of starvation while I have anything to give them. If the supply runs out the responsibility may rest where it belongs. At present there is a great abundance of berries, and these help to prevent starvation, for the Indians gather and eat them in great quantities, but the berries will soon be gone, and then there will be nothing but meat and flour.

LIMITED SUPPLIES

It should be borne in mind that no time since I assumed charge of this agency has there been a single pound of rice, beans, hominy, oatmeal or anything of that kind to give the Indians. Do you wonder that it is reported they are starving? In May and June there were times when they stripped trees and ate the inner bark to keep their souls and bodies together and all the time they were begging for food. I at one time issued over 2,000 pounds of bacon that I had not receipted for and had been condemned by the board of survey. I would never have done so had they not been in a starving condition. Just now they are not suffering but in a very short time the berries will be gone and the supplies will run short, and the carpenter will again be kept busy making burial boxes, unless something can be done in the way of getting them additional food."

CRIMINAL CALENDAR.

TERRIBLE RIOT ON AN EXCURSION TRIP

New York, Aug 31—The Empire Laundry Association started this morning from the foot of West Eleventh street, on the barge [illegible] for Linden grove near Elm park, Staten Island. On the trip one of the excursionists attempted to take some sandwiches from the bar when the barkeeper struck him with a club. The crowd then pounced upon the barkeeper, beating him to death with glasses, plates, pitchers and whatever else they could lay hands on. The barge was brought to a standstill and the captain sent a man ashore to notify the Staten Island police of the murder. The police, however, took no action and the barge returned to New York. After killing the barkeeper the party gutted the bar and it was reported by a man who came ashore that the lower deck of the barge looked like a slaughter pen, as all were fighting terribly.

WILL BE PROSECUTED

Wilkesbarre, Aug 31—The Record will to-morrow announce that criminal proceedings will be begun at once against defaulting paymaster Roberts. District Attorney McGahren at midnight admitted that suit would be brought. He said the circumstances of the settlement between Roberts and his employers does not release the criminal from liability of arrest and prosecution. The District Attorney claims that permitting a man to go scot free after stealing $100,000 corrupts public morals.

POSTOFFICE ROBBED

Williamsport, Pa, Aug 30—The postoffice in this city was robbed yesterday afternoon of $3,000 worth of stamps. The chief clerk was called to the door to see a man in a buggy. He was not out three minutes but during that time the packages of stamps were taken from the desk and four packages similar in appearance substituted. These contained brown paper.

RAILROAD NOTES.

THE UNION PACIFIC'S FLOATING DEBT

New York, Aug 30—[Special]—The Times says: An official of the Union Pacific railroad says there is a disposition to take care of the floating debt just as soon as a plan can be agreed upon. Two plans are now under discussion, one to dispose of the St Joe and Western first mortgage bonds now held by the Union Pacific and some other securities, the loss of which would not interfere with the earnings of the company; another plan, and apparently the favorite one, is to sell the Central branch of the Union Pacific, which joins the Missouri Pacific railroad at Atchison, to the Missouri Pacific company. Officers of the Union Pacific figure the actual debt at about five millions. The government authorities figured it at about ten millions, not allowing certain offsets which the officers of the Union Pacific claim should be allowed.

ACCIDENTS.

A WRECKED CREW RESCUED

Muskegon, Mich, Aug 31—The crew of the wrecked schooner Brigham has arrived on board the schooner Walter Smith which picked them up in mid lake Thursday forenoon. They are four in number—James Henry captain, Patrick Powers, Richard Lort and Edward Atkinson. The Brigham left Muskegon Saturday the 23d inst with a cargo of timber for Chicago. Sunday evening a violent squall struck her and she nearly swamped. The men stood at the pumps all night but the storm increased. Monday forenoon the Brigham capsized and shortly afterward careened bottom up. All day the men floated about on a temporary raft. The seas swept over them, and their sufferings cannot be told. Tuesday passed, one vessel only being seen, the attention of which they failed to attract. Their situation was unchanged until Thursday morning when they were rescued by the Walter Smith. Up to this time the men were entirely without food on a frail raft, at the mercy of the waves.

VIGOROUS AND NOVEL GRAND JURY REPORT

Rich Gold Discoveries Near Missoula—Extensive Cave in Montana—News Notes from Victoria—Etc

Catholic Protestant War of Words

San Francisco, Aug 30—[Special]—It appears that the affair of Senger, the High school teacher, charged with teaching his classes doctrines prejudicial to the Catholic church is not yet ended. Contrary to all expectations the full board of education declined to approve the action of its sub-committee which decided to reinstate Senger and the matter will be considered further to-morrow. Feeling over the question is still high between Catholics and Protestants, and is causing a great deal of indignant talk on both sides. Catholics claim that their bishop did right to interpose to save Catholic children from learning things tending to weaken their allegiance to the Catholic church, and Protestants claim that Senger taught only the plain facts of the history of the reformation and its causes as was his duty to do, and they claim that the bishop's interference was a Catholic attack upon the integrity and existence of the public schools. Another incident has added to this religious war. In the art gallery in the mechanics' fair there is a picture called "Forbidden Fruit," representing a priest glancing with a very unclerical leer at a coquettish girl with a trim figure and dainty ankle. Father Riordan addressed a note to the managers of the fair asking that the picture be removed from the gallery. The request was denied and the question of its propriety is being discussed with a good deal of passion.

Politics in California.

San Francisco, Aug 31—[Special]—The week past has been a dull one politically. Every night there are half a score of club meetings, but they are of little interest and fail to attract much attention even from club members. In spite of the expectations of an active campaign there is little enthusiasm. The republicans do not entertain a doubt of carrying the state for Blaine and most democrats when they come to talk seriously admit that they are without hope. To-morrow night the wigwam at the corner of Stockton and Geary streets will be formally opened and there is expected to be a grand outpouring of republicans. In state politics there is little to note. The nomination of Sumner as the successor of Budd in Page's old district did not create the enthusiasm expected and it is said that he would not have been nominated had not the convention been packed with 60 per cent of proxies. It is expected here that Sumner will be defeated. On the other hand, there are indications that Glascock will be re-elected from the Alameda district. The district has a republican majority of several hundred but Glascock's good work in congress with his great personal popularity will tell greatly in his favor. A member of the republican state committee said to-night that they felt a little shaky in Glascock's district. Both parties are preparing for a grand torchlight procession to come off soon in the city.

Sacramento, Aug 30—Suit has been begun here by Samuel Norris against Haggin and Tevis for recovery of the lands granted and damages. Samuel Norris, an old pioneer of California, claims that he was owner of the tract of land which contains 44,000 acres together with several lots of real estate in the city of Sacramento, that from the effects of a blow on the head in 1867 he was incapacitated from doing business and was not in his right mind, and that the defendants ... their agent ... fraudulently got possession of his property which was worth $1,[illegible] ... $12,000 ... A REMARKABLE DOCUMENT

The San Francisco Grand Jury Report Exposes Numerous Evils

San Francisco, Aug 30—[Special]—The report of the grand jury submitted to-day is the most remarkable document of its kind ever put forth in San Francisco. It hits a hundred abuses squarely on the head and with a vigor and intelligence that has never been equaled here. It first charges Mayor Bartlett with neglect of duty and gross violation of the plain law and points out where and how he has erred. The city and county auditor is charged with conducting his office carelessly and his course is roundly censured. The poll tax collector is shown to have charged improper fees which he put into his own pocket. Too much money, says the report, is paid for salaries about the city hall, and it goes on to specify. A chapter is devoted to the county clerk's office and the report concludes: "It is somewhat remarkable that from the fiscal year 1876-77 the receipts of this office have steadily declined while the expenditures have steadily increased. From this view of the case there must be some defect in the present system or in the management of the department." The board of education is handled without gloves. After pointing out its sins of omission and commission ... to the length of half a column ... In the opinion of the grand jury the present board does not accomplish the purposes for which a board should be elected nor represent the true interests of the school department, but perhaps the only remedy is a political cyclone that will sweep them from office. "The political party that hereafter presents for the suffrages of the people a candidate for the office of school director who is not known to have a long residence, to be of the highest and most honorable character will [illegible] defeat."

THE POLICE COURT

Respecting the police court the jury says: "No inconsiderable portion of the time of this body has been occupied in an investigation of the abuses of justice in the police court. Professional bondsmen ... those arrested for crime ... being neither householders nor freeholders ... have been and are accepted as security for the appearance of arrested criminals. Receivers of stolen goods arrested and brought before the police court have been dismissed upon testimony which to the grand jury was conclusive of guilt and which would seem to justify the opinion that in the police court the evidence of a thief or vagabond arrested is of more weight than the sworn testimony of honorable and respectable officers who make the arrest. The evidence given would almost seem to indicate a desire on the part of the police court to thwart and obstruct the efforts of the police department to suppress and punish crime."

After censuring the management of the police department the grand jury gives a hard blow to Governor Stoneman as follows: "Any attempt made by the governor of the state to remove officers will meet with disfavor and resented as uncalled for interference in the affairs of this city and county. Without cause or constitutional or legal warrant, such interference coming at the present time just preceding a great national political contest has the appearance of being instigated by professional politicians and in hostility to the true interest of the people and to good government."

A FAIR REPORT

Even the supreme court of the state does not escape. The justices are charged in certain rulings and customs of violating the state constitution.

Praise is given by the jury as liberally as censure and the sheriff, tax collector and many others are highly commended.

Following are the names of the grand jurors whose names appear at the bottom of this remarkable report: John Nightingale, foreman; L N Jacobs, secretary; J A Shepston, W Wilkinson, C A Warren, R H Pease Jr, C K Cadman, Ben A Frindle, M McLennan, John Mason, D Hicks, Moses Heller, James Pendergast, M S Kelly, d Hart, D A Macdonald, J Kavanagh.

The report has made a decided sensation, and is highly approved by the papers. It has more force because it is non partisan.

[Special.]—The Call prints the grand jury report submitted yesterday without a word of comment. The Chronicle heads it "A Vigorous Report," but has not a word to say editorially. The Examiner does not even print the report. The Bulletin of last night contained a leading editorial heartily approving the boldness of the jury.

Rich Gold Discoveries near Missoula.

Salt Lake, Aug 31—Later accounts locate the gold mines that have been discovered four miles east of Missoula on a high bar opposite the old Marshall grade, some distance from the river. It is quite an extensive bar and almost innumerable locations have been made by Missoulians. Gold is found from the grass roots down. One man got about forty inches of water turned on and washed out several dollars in a short time. The gold is reported by some as very fine and of light color, but yields from four to six cents to the pan, which would be big pay. Water was taken on the bar by a ditch but the project was abandoned. Parties are now out with the object of going to bedrock, and if the prospects justify will bring in a ditch and put on a hydraulic. A Chinaman offered the owners one dollar per day per man for the privilege of putting Chinamen on.

An Extensive Cave

Salt Lake, Aug 31—A Fort Benton dispatch says an immense cave occurred last night and another to-day on what is known as the [illegible] hill between this city and Marias. The cave is nearly half a mile in length and a great mass of earth fell into the Missouri river, filling that stream half way across. It came down with such force as to move before it a small island in the river a short distance. The road over this hill, which is a hog back to Marias, is gone and it will be a difficult matter to construct another.

Conductor Lane endeavored to eject them from the train several times and did not succeed until the train reached Michaud, when the tramps pulled revolvers and threatened the life of the conductor and his aids, and threats were made against the company. An officer was telegraphed for and was soon on the ground, but the tramps resisted all attempts at arrest. The officer opened fire, killing Mark Keogh. Bert Beer then gave himself up. A special train and deputies were sent out, and conveyed the prisoner and dead tramp to Pocatello.

Withdrawal Again Demanded

Catholic Universe, Cleveland, O

The imperative conditions must be understood and consummated: Cleveland's withdrawal from the ticket or his vindication before the country.

That a candidate's personal character is not to be questioned, if not the argument of a mercenary or of a blind partisan, can only mean that moral character is not to be weighed in trusting and honoring a public official. To such as have degenerated into that contention we have no reply to make: no party could discipline us into such a tenet.

The virtue of our women is the basis of the family and the family is the corner stone of state. We dare not present an inebriate in wine and lust as the model of American reform, the example to our youth, and the candidate for the most exalted post within the gift of our galaxy of free commonwealths.

Is the habitual enemy of woman's virtue—so charged, so uncontradicted—to be enthroned above all the virile purity of this land and installed with executive mastery over all this broad confederation? Our manful American boast of respectful homage to our women could never be repeated during his administration.

What an insult to a party that maintains the pure and statesmanly Seymours, Thurmans and Bayards—exalted in private as in public life.

Some sapless democrats remonstrate that even republican newspapers are reluctant to ventilate this Cleveland story.

We wish to unveil no man's private vices. The best of us are frail. But for God's right arm extended to all who seek it, our scorching passions would wither every virtuous inclination as the midsummer sun dries up the drop of dew. Neither would we constitute ourselves a public tribunal to pass sentence on strictly private guilt. But a candidate, by that fact, submits his personal record to the public face, and then the right and duty of the electors are as clear as that of the father of a family, who protects his fireside from all evil contamination.

The West Side, published at Independence says editorially: From reports from all over Polk and adjoining counties it is safe to say that at least one third if not one-half of the spring wheat is being destroyed by the rust. This being the case it will reduce the estimated surplus a great deal. It may yet come to pass that there will be lots of storage room for all the merchantable wheat this county will afford. The acreage of spring grain is quite large and has been counted in the general estimate but we know of several instances where a great deal of it will not be harvested at all. We have no doubt but there will be a demand for all the wheat produced in this country, though at present buyers are not even making an offer of any kind that is the least encouraging. It is said that last year shippers got left a little, and that they propose to play even this season. Perhaps the producers will take a hand in this game, and if they do, and in order to protect themselves hold their productions from the market for better prices, will make money matters very close for some time yet to come. In summing up the wheat production we find that India will afford about 240,000,000 bushels, and aside from the total amount produced in Europe it is estimated ... [illegible] ... for at least 158,000,000 bushels. With this in view and the fact that the spring yield will be greatly reduced in this state by the rust, we see no reason why the farmers should not get as good prices this year as last when the bulk of the crop was moved at an average of about 90 cents per bushel.

England's Vigorous Policy on the Egyptian Question Places Her Alone—The Cholera Epidemic—Old World Notes

New York, Aug 31—[Special]—Morning papers contain the following cable specials from London:

EUROPEAN COMPLICATIONS

Stronger tension and hysteric nervousness continue to characterize the relations of England and other powers of Europe. The air is thick with rumors, alarms and speculations. Every interview between prominent diplomats produces a full harvest of imaginary conclusions. The recent meeting at Varzin is interpreted in some English papers to be a part of a plot between Bismarck and Ferry to break down the colonial omnipotence of England, and the announcement that some Austrian ships are to accompany German vessels to the African coast suggests that Austria is also in a general land grab scheme, at the expense of the former mistress of the seas.

The press of the different countries, and London journals are engaged in an almost fierce controversy over the bombardment of Foo Chow. The report that three emperors are about to meet suggests the abandonment by Russia of her designs against Constantinople, and reciprocal obligation on the part of Austria and Germany to let her go ahead to her aggressions against England in Central Asia. The sum total of the whole thing is to produce a general rising against Bismarck as a diplomatist. It is admitted that he has isolated France and England, and has altogether got the world into such a position that whatever happens Germany is sure to get in. All these things add additional interest to the conflict between France and China as increasing the chances of diplomatic complications.

SPECIAL NOTES

King Alfonso is in wretched health in consequence of excesses. It is doubtful if he lives long. Queen Christine is very unpopular at Madrid, and her regency, it is feared, would be the signal for a revolution.

Stanley will lecture throughout England and America.

A writer prophesies that the example of Mrs. Langtry will set the fashion of sending a Chinese boy and a little letter with every half ounce of tea sold by retail dealers anxious to push their business.

George Augustus Sala is to visit Australia in January on a lecturing tour. He will speak on life as he has seen it, a prolific theme. After staying twelve months he will lecture in San Francisco.

OLD WORLD CROPS

The following news of the harvest outlook is obtained from reports of the recent gathering at Vienna, the international seed market, where delegates met to establish a fixed basis of crop statistics throughout Europe. The wheat crop on an average is excellent and India has a large exportable surplus. The English crop is 10 above average. Prices are the lowest within the century so that English farmers have dropped five cents a bushel within a fortnight. The same tendency exists throughout Europe. Wheat from the fields of northern Russia is offered on the Baltic at ninety-two cents a bushel. The European crop of hay and rye is very short. Hops are a little below average. Of maize an enormous yield is reported.

CHOLERA SPREADING

Cholera is still spreading in the Pyrenees villages but elsewhere in France is abating its virulence. The total number of deaths is 4676. In Marseilles and Arles there have been just 100 deaths during the week. A map of the infected country drawn up a week ago would now be useless because of the vast subsequent spread among villages. There have been about twenty five deaths at Corsica and eighty per cent are in the insane asylum at Aix. In Italy the situation is alarming, doubly so by the brutal ignorance of the peasantry, who stone doctors in the streets. It seems probable that the epidemic will make terrible havoc in Italy before the year closes.

LITERATURE IN RUSSIA

The publication of the last index to the Russian census has called attention to extraordinary restrictions on literature in that country. There are only five or six firms in the whole empire who have a permit from the crown to sell books. All the rest exist on sufferance or permit arbitrarily given and arbitrarily withdrawn by local police. There are only two public libraries in the whole country.

MILLOT IN DISGRACE

THE FRANCO-CHINESE WAR

Positions of the Various European Countries—Germany Sides with France

New York, Aug 30—[Special]—The Herald's cables give the following as the positions of European countries in the France-Chinese war: The feeling at Berlin is warmly favorable to France. In China as well as in Egypt, Germany will see that the ambition of France has not only fair play but the fullest scope for action, so as to divert the thoughts from the lost provinces. Germany does this not from fear, but simply from a resolve to maintain peace. Nobody here believes in China's war intentions. China has no vessels, no soldiers, no money. In case of French occupation of Formosa, France will agree to give the greatest liberty to German commerce, but Germany has only a small interest in Chinese matters and thinks that the interests of civilization would have a better guarantee for the future by an increase of French rather than English influence in the far east.

At Vienna sympathy is entirely with France. Were England to become predominant in China it might affect Germany ... the Congo country. Preparations are making to prevent Austria from being left behind in the general scramble for the Congo. Two vessels of war are expected to sail from Trieste for the Congo, where territory adjacent to the recent German acquisitions will be taken possession of by Austria.

Russia is holding herself ready to give material aid to France in China and in return secure for her an important strategic point on the ... frontier.

ITALY'S POSITION

Italy has no confidence in French colonial enterprise nor any colonial aspirations or interests of her own and therefore takes only the interest of a theatrical spectator in France-Chinese matters. An Italian ex-minister said to-day: "France, during two centuries, has striven to colonize America, Africa and India. The result is a failure."

The press here is simply epigrammatic on Congo. ... of the French ... among church men at ... [illegible] of the Canton cathedral.

Never since the battle of Waterloo has public opinion in France been more savagely hostile to England than at present. Papers of all creeds ... transferring their hatred from Germany to England and constantly recalling the fact when France has wept and bled for perfidious Albion. ... The French press ... It is the wild dream of English journalists to ... [illegible] ... look forward ... the formation of an anti English coalition.

THE EGYPTIAN TROUBLES

There is no doubt but that Egypt is at the bottom of all this; hatred and venom toward England is wide spread. The rumor that Tonquin had been recaptured by the Chinese excited English opinion and intensified the interest in Admiral Courbet's operations. Thinking that the statute of limitation has debarred Copenhagen and Alexandria, English bile has overflown against France. The feeling which killed the channel tunnel comes up vigorously. A tory member of parliament said to-day: "Let France harm one Englishman's chest, or peril our commercial policy, then, when the commons meet, showers of questions will assail Gladstone, whom France recently by conference hit in the face, and will bother him. Other bothers may have had party reasons but this would be additionally patriotic." Already, in consequence of the trouble, Chinese commodities have perceptibly advanced. Some of this is real, and most of it speculative. There is more advance in Indian teas, Assam shares went up two and a half yesterday.

PRESS COMMENT ON THE SITUATION

Paris, Aug 30—The Avenir Militaire recognizes the probability of a long French campaign in China, and advises the government to make preparations for sending 60,000 troops to that country. The government, it thinks, should rely on the idea that China will finally be compelled to pay the costs of the war.

The Gaulois asserts that different regiments have already been greatly disorganized by the system of taking parcels of men from everywhere, to form the Tonquin expedition. This practice, it says, deprives the regiments of consistence and cohesion. The marine force is also disordered.

Admiral Peyron has been obliged to postpone the sailing of the war ships La Perouse and [illegible]. Their crews are incomplete and can only be filled up by drafts on the reserve.

ENGLAND

THE EXPEDITION UP THE NILE

London, Aug 30—Certain particulars with reference to the relief expedition up the Nile have been finally arranged. The force which will proceed south of Assouan will be composed of 8000 British troops, 2000 Egyptians and a flotilla of 950 river boats to be manned by 400 British, 300 Kroomen and about 5000 Egyptian and Nubian boatmen. The cost of the campaign is estimated at £8,000,000. It is reported that General Lord Wolseley before accepting the chief command of the expedition insisted on being granted a carte blanche as to the strength and equipment of the force.

The total number of British troops in Egypt at the present moment is 10,128, of whom 601 are on the sick list. When all the reinforcements destined for Egypt reach there the total number will be 15,000. The exact composition of the force which will take part in the expedition to Khartoum will not be decided upon until General Wolseley reaches Egypt. General orders have been already given, however, to eliminate from the troops all men whose physique renders it likely that they would be unable to undergo the privations to which the expedition no doubt will be exposed. Several special correspondents leave London for Egypt to-night.

THEATRICAL NOTES

London, Aug 30—A quarrel occurred between Henry Abbey, theatrical manager, and Gilbert, the composer, arising from an incident at a rehearsal of "Pygmalion and Galatea." Gilbert, finding that Abbey had not arranged for the actor designated by the former to play the leading part in a comedy, heard Abbey's explanation in silence. Miss Mary Anderson and the general company were present, when he abruptly told Abbey that he did not know how to treat English gentlemen, wished the company good morning and left the theater. The parties have since exchanged letters. The actors side with Abbey.

FRANCE ANXIOUS TO NEGOTIATE.

London, Aug 31—Ferry, replying to a note sent him by Granville since the bombardment of Foo Chow, renewed his assurance that France desires to limit her operations in the east to those of the fleet. It is reported that Ferry has instructed Patenotre, French minister to China, to resume negotiations at Peking, pending the result of which Courbet will remain at anchorage off the isle of [illegible]. Should Patenotre fail to obtain a resumption of negotiations Courbet is left with absolute freedom to act as he considers the circumstances warrant. In the latter case it is expected that Courbet will attack Canton. The consular body at Shanghai, through the French consul, has been assured that Shanghai will not be attacked.

AMERICAN RAILWAY STOCKS

London, Aug 31—English holders of Denver and Rio Grande railroad bonds have deputed [illegible] and Parrish to proceed to New York and confer with the American bondholders, with a view to reorganizing the road. The Scotch bondholders at the same time will send Fleming and Van Weel. The stock exchange has under discussion proposals which have appeared in letters to the papers, to the effect that the English shareholders should refuse to allow American railway securities to be quoted where there is no longer a registry of shares. The reason urged for this course is that such registry is necessary to enable English investors to exercise some influence on the management.

EUROPEAN POLITICS

London, Aug 31—Official circles deny the rumors that Bismarck intends to call a conference on Egyptian affairs and the Congo question. Nothing was heard at the foreign office concerning the matter. FRANCE.

FRENCH HATRED OF ENGLAND.

Paris, Aug 31—[Special]—French hatred of England finds [illegible] ... paper says Disraeli earned his earldom and the gratitude of the queen by making her empress of India, and that now ... the writer says, to capture Egypt and cares nothing about loss of life and treasure or honor that may be involved if only he can add this other bauble to the diadem of his aged mistress.

The most scurrilous article that has yet appeared was published in La France, a paper which has its circulation entirely among republicans and is supposed to reflect the views of President Grevy. This article calls the queen of England an old Jewess, and apologizes to Hebrews for the use of the term. It says she is almost continually drunk on gin or cherry brandy and that her indispositions, which are described in carefully chosen phrases, are only the result of a vulgar old woman's over indulgence. The article then passes to consideration of the character of the Prince of Wales and says: "If he should succeed to the throne it will only be a change of evils for the English people, for if Victoria is a selfish glutton it is also notorious that the prince is a selfish coward."

SCOTLAND

GLADSTONE AT EDINBURGH

Edinburgh, Aug 30—The town council and liberal associations of this city presented addresses of welcome to Gladstone this afternoon en route to the corn exchange, where a meeting was held this evening. The greatest enthusiasm prevailed. Members of the houses of lords and commons and influential officials were on the platform. Gladstone made a speech and recounted the franchise bill which had been conceded to tory ideas in order to avert a conflict, laying particular stress upon the practical concession that the bill should not go into operation until 1886 in order to allow the passage of the redistribution bill. Gladstone contended that the subject of complete electoral reform involved too many questions to be contained in one measure. He hoped the lords would listen to reason and end conflict. He was not averse to an admixture of hereditary principles in the constitution, but those in direct conflict with the elected chamber were its worst enemies. He strongly denied the right of the lords to decide when to appeal to the country. The admittance of such principle was treason to British liberty.

The Daily Oregonian

MONDAY MORNING, SEPTEMBER 1 1884

THE RESTORATION

A "Life of Grover Cleveland" by Pendleton King, has been published by Putnam's Sons New York. The author is an ex confederate and the book is written from a southern stand point. In the last paragraph of his work he says: "If Mr. Cleveland should be chosen president there will be in Washington City on the 4th of March next such a gathering of the clans from the Potomac to the Rio Grande as was never seen before in our history. The 'rebel yell' will at length be heard on the hights of the capital of the United States, but only in expression of patriotism and the heartfelt joy of prodigal sons who, after twenty five years of political exile realize at last their full restoration to the Union."

This book comes to THE OREGONIAN from the publishers with a request that it receive notice and that copies of the paper containing the same be forwarded to the publishing house.

We find the 224 pages of the book, summed up in its final paragraph quoted above. That paragraph and what it implies constitute a leading reason why millions of voters will cast their ballots against Grover Cleveland. Circulation of this campaign 'Life' of the democratic candidate can scarcely be regarded as a judicious thing. It will do of course for the southern states, but there it is not needed because elections there are carried by the surer method of shotgun practice and ballot box stuffing, and it is useless to waste time or money on an appeal to the understanding of the voter.

In this "Life" of Mr. Cleveland the object of the south in desiring his election is stated frankly enough. His chief support comes from that section. All the electoral votes that he can surely count are there. And they tell us through their campaign scribe, who asks us to vote for Cleveland, that they never can realize the full restoration of the union, never can feel themselves at home again, till control of the government is once more placed in their hands.

There is nothing equivocal about this. It is frankly and even bluntly stated. And it recalls the fact, once very familiar, that the southern man has always regarded himself as possessed of a natural and indisputable right to control the government. It was solely because an election went against him twenty-four years ago that he raised the standard of the rebellion and became a 'prodigal son.' The government had been wrested from its rightful possessor and he couldn't feel at home under it in other hands. In his indignation and wrath he undertook to overthrow it. A government which he couldn't control was a monstrous thing, wholly unworthy of his respect, and as for obedience to it that was out of the question. But after a four years' war he was subjugated, and when he couldn't fight any longer he offered at once and with a true magnanimity to make it all up if he were allowed to take the government again. This offer has been renewed every four years since, for he is persistent enough if he isn't patient, but it has been declined, and in consequence he has been compelled to declare that there has been no restoration of the Union, in any proper sense of the term. He still regards himself as a "political exile" because he is not permitted to rule the political household. But he is still ready to forgive all he has suffered, all he asks on returning as a "prodigal son" is that the entire establishment be placed in his hands as it used to be, and then he will express his 'heartfelt joy' as he realizes at last 'the full restoration of the Union.' Only elect Cleveland and Hendricks and set up again the government of the south through the doughface of the north and things will be 'normal' once more.

What apology ought to be required for the mistake of electing Lincoln prosecuting the war, abolishing slavery enacting the constitutional amendments and keeping the southern brother during so many years since, out of his rightful heritage as ruler of the country will be matter for subsequent consideration. Indemnity too may be required with the apology. At present, however the main question is the restoration. It is set forth with earnestness and feeling in this 'Life of Grover Cleveland,' which may be commended to all who are filled with regret at the course of political events in the United States during the last twenty-five years, who have contended against these events at every step, and who would be glad to undo or reverse them if they could.

THE VERMONT ELECTION

Vermont as usual fires the first gun of the campaign. When important movements of the army of the Potomac were ordered and expedition was demanded, General Sedgwick, in whose corps the old Vermont brigade served for a long time, was accustomed to say "Put the Vermonters ahead and keep the column well closed up." Vermont has been so strongly and stubbornly republican that less interest has been excited by her political campaigns. In the Greeley canvass when the strength of the independent movement was still uncertain a former Vermonter, in response to the question whether he had heard the news from Vermont just after the September election in that state replied, 'I didn't know that there was ever any news from Vermont.' There never is, we might almost say, any election news from that state. And yet the election which occurs there to-morrow will disclose something about the defection from Blaine in the republican ranks that is said to exist in the New England states. The republican majorities at the Vermont September elections in presidential years since 1860 has been as follows. In 1860, 22 370, in 1864 18 977, in 1868, 27,226, in 1872 25 338 in 1876 23 735, in 1880, 25 025. In 1876 the Vermont democrats cast 20,350 votes for Samuel J Tilden, against 44,428 for R. B. Hayes. Four years later they polled 18,316 votes for Hancock, against 45,567 for Garfield. At the last state election (that of 1882) the total vote was thus divided John L. Barstow (republican) 35,839, George E Eaton (democrat) 14,466, C C Martin (greenback) 1536, scattering, 8. The Free Press of Burlington sees no reason to expect less than 25 000 majority for Colonel Pingree for governor this year; and a majority as large or larger for the national republican ticket in November.

The nomination of Blaine was received with great dissatisfaction in Vermont. One prominent republican now says 'Of course we all wanted Edmunds, but it was not so much that there was disappointment about him—nobody really expected that he could be nominated—but that people wanted what he stood for. Hawley would have been perfectly satisfactory for instance. When Blaine was nominated I tell you there was growling, perhaps two or three here were glad, but nearly everybody was bitterly dissatisfied. Well, some of us see it differently now, but others stand out and make this bolt." The bolters, where there are any, have been very undemonstrative, and for this reason their strength is unknown. It is not probable that they are very numerous for the great bulk of the vote of the state is cast by farmers and they are generally slow to leave the beaten political path. It is doubtful however, we think, whether the encouraging estimate of the Free Press will be realized. But unless the republican majority shall fall below 20 000 it should not be regarded as very significant of a determination on the part of republican voters in the eastern states to subordinate the great issues of national policy to the personal question which has been made unduly prominent thus far in the campaign.

The New York Star (Tammany) thinks that Ben Butler is in the presidential race to stay, and that he is not going to be laughed or talked down either. Although it avers that Ben has not taken the Star into his confidence, it does not anticipate much comfort for the democracy from his candidacy, and says on this point

"Butler is not only going to stick out this fight to the end, but he's going to get in some of the liveliest sort of slashing we shall have seen for many a day. The aureola of uncertainty will grow brighter over his brow as the time wears along. With three nominations behind him, the confidence of the laboring classes and the sympathy of a good many democrats Ben Butler's candidacy will prove the muggiest sort of a mystery, as to its results on democratic chances, long before election day.

REFORMER HENDRICKS

Mr Hendricks in his speech a Indianapolis on last Saturday evening said

> Bad as the civil service now is as all know it is there are in it some men of tried integrity and proved ability. Such men, and such men only should be retained in office but no man should be retained on any consideration who has prostituted his office to the purposes of partisan intimidation or compulsion or who has furnished money to corrupt elections.

In making this statement the purpose of Mr Hendricks was to put his demand for removal of officials in a smooth and plausible way. Yet it is apparent that under this generalization excuses could be found for making a clean sweep. Every republican official who has used the ordinary privilege of a citizen to help his party in an election would be declared guilty of 'intimidation or compulsion,' and every one who has contributed a dollar to an ordinary campaign fund, for the proper expenses that must be incurred in every political contest would be set down as having 'furnished money to corrupt elections.'

Why did not Mr Hendricks go a little further? While he was denouncing the office holders of the republican party for "furnishing money to corrupt elections, why didn't he also denounce the office seekers of the democratic party for doing the same thing? There is far more corruption of elections always, by the office seeker than by the office holder, because there are always hundreds striving to get into office to one who is in or can get in.

But there is a recorded test of the honesty of Mr Hendricks in the matter of getting money out of officeholders to corrupt elections. In the long and varied history of this representative of his party there are many landmarks. During the years of 1856 58 he was commissioner of the general land office. In the official reports of the committees of the house of representatives, first session Thirty eighth congress, Vol 5 1859 60, the sworn testimony is presented of a number of witnesses all democrats—who give the details that show how money was raised under direction of Mr Hendricks for democratic campaign purposes. It is shown that in the year 1856 two collections were made in the department presided over by Hendricks, one of them purporting to be voluntary, to which the clerks gave from $5 to $30 each, while the other was an assessment made on the basis of a certain percentage of the salaries. As to the manner of collection a clerk in the general land office under Mr. Hendricks testified as follows

> Question—Do you know of any assessments made upon the clerks or employes there for political purposes? Answer—I asked the gentlemen—a portion of them—to contribute for that purpose.
> Q—You asked them yourself? A—Yes sir.
>
> Q—How was that contribution made? Was it a certain percentage on the salary? A—In one instance it was.
>
> Q—In what year was that? A—My impression is that it was in the year 1856.
>
> Q—Do you recollect what per cent it was that was levied that year? A—I can only tell from my own proportion. My recollection is that I paid $32 on a salary of $1000.
>
> Q—In what way was the list made? Describe how it was prepared—whether with the names and the salaries and the percentage that was assessed or how was it? A—So far as my recollection serves me I am not aware that I had a list. I think I had a memorandum book in which I put down the names of such gentlemen as contributed knowing their salary and what proportion it would be. That is my recollection of the matter.
>
> Q—Were not there two assessments made that year—one before the election and another afterward—to make up a deficiency? A—That is what I spoke of. I think one was before election and another to make up a deficiency. I was under the impression that the deficiency was the only one I had anything to do with.
>
> Q—That one you collected? A—Yes, sir.
>
> Q—By whose authority was it done? Who was it that requested or directed you to perform this duty? A—I took the paper around at the request of the commissioner of the general land office.
>
> Q—Into whose hands was the money paid after you collected it? A—The money that I procured I think I paid over to the then commissioner.

So it appears that the excellent Mr Hendricks civil service reformer now declaiming against officials who prostitute their offices to partisan purposes and furnish money to corrupt elections, forced an assessment on the clerks in his own department and himself received the money. The testimony also goes to show that in some instances the money was deducted from the pay of the officials. Another witness, who was also a clerk in the general land office under Commissioner Hendricks testified as follows

> Q—Will you tell us all you know about the collecting and raising of money there for political purposes? A—I can give all the information I have probably in a very few words. While I was a clerk in the department levies were made upon various occasions upon the clerks for funds and on every occasion I dissented. It was against my feelings and my principles. They did not come on all occasions to me but the last occasion to which I took exception was one on which they wanted to raise a fund of $8000 or $9000 in the various departments. That however, I do not know. Such was the statement made to me.
>
> Q—Do you recollect about what the percentage was upon the salaries? A—I do not recollect, I think it was between 2½ and 5 per cent.
>
> Q—You say it was an assessment and that you refused to subscribe? A—It was a regular assessment. It was upon paper that I recognized as coming from a certain office. The names, the salaries and the amounts to be paid were all put down.
>
> Q—Where did the paper come from? A. From the department of the Interior. It was the same kind of paper as the pay clerk uses. On a previous occasion an assessment was made in the middle of the month, when the clerks had no money and the amounts were afterward deducted from their pay by the pay clerk.

Further testimony goes to show that the receipts were paid to Commissioner Hendricks himself. On page 503 505 of the report before mentioned appears the testimony of a man who was chief of a division in the general land office. In part it reads as follows

> Q—Did you assist in collecting in 1856 58? A—I did within my division.
>
> Q—By whose direction? A—Well I was requested—I was not directed to do so—to carry the list around in my division that is to collect it.
> Q—By whom? A—By Mr Hendricks I believe who was then commissioner. It was a request.

This testimony proves upon Mr Hendricks the very sort of corruption which he denounces. Is it too harsh to say that his speech of Saturday last, taken in connection with it proves him also a hypocrite? Throughout his long career his influence has been as bad in all respects as the worst known in our politics. He has been an extreme and unscrupulous partisan, a servile follower of the pro-slavery and secession leaders a copperhead who opposed the war for the union and voted in and out of the senate against all measures for carrying it on, a rancorous opponent of the constitutional amendments and the other settlements of the reconstruction period an obstructionist whose voice has been raised and influence exerted against everything that the people of the United States have decreed for the honor and safety of the country during the last thirty years. The history would scarcely be complete without the hypocrisy that moves him who assessed his clerks in the general land office and received the money with his own hands to pose as a civil service reformer and to denounce officials who 'furnish money to corrupt elections.'

COURTING IN OLD TIMES

In Harper's Magazine for September Charles Dudley Warner says that in early New England days as far back as the middle of the eighteenth century when hospitality was a practice as well as a virtue there was in most houses only one large assembly room and there the family and all the guests and all the chance callers gathered on winter nights about the blazing fire of logs. Young men were timid and maidens were shy in those days and yet courtship went on. How it was possible in this common room, where every word was heard and every look taken notice of was inexplicable to him until he read in the admirable volume on the recent centennial of Long Meadow, Mass., by Professor Richard S. Storrs of that town, that in the winter evenings, for the convenience of young lovers, since there was no 'next room' courting sticks were used, that is, long wooden tubes that could convey from lip to ear sweet and secret whispers. He dwells with delight upon the 'charming picture that this calls up of life in a Puritan household, this tubular love making the pretty girl (nearly every girl is pretty in the firelight of long ago) seated in one stiff high backed chair, and the staid but blushing lover in another handling the courting stick itself an open confession of complacence if not of true love. These courting-sticks seem to him the ne plus ultra of tender communication when a third party is present, and he thinks they would be very useful now at large parties where there is such a din and babble that one can only court a pretty girl at the risk of bronchitis or laryngitis. Sometimes in the jam you can not get near the girl, but with a long courting-stick you could woo her away from her too near admirer.' This invention he says seems worthy of revival for many reasons and he would be glad of any further information in regard to the 'Civilization in its progress drops a good many things that ought to be retained.'

The old plan had one important advantage which Mr Warner omits to mention. It made courting possible in the presence of other members of the family particularly of the parents of the young maiden. It is too much the custom now for this tender occupation to be carried on in private and engagements to be formed and marriages, yea, to be contracted before the maiden's parents or guardian have any opportunity to become acquainted with the young man, and before the maiden herself has gained anything more than a sentimental acquaintance with him. The most important business engagement of the whole life is thus entered upon often with less intelligent consultation with the natural advisers than is given to the purchase of a new hat. If she is taken in it is both her own and her parents fault, but such a result could hardly be unexpected in many cases. If the revival of the courting stick could be attended by a restoration of the other beautiful parts of the picture of the household seated together in the same room, where both of the interesting parties could have the advantage of seeing and hearing each other in conversation with the interested third parties, courtship would be much less of a "blind pool" or a lottery than it is now and without robbing it of its appropriate sentiment, it would become more of the practical affair it ought to be. And who can doubt that this revival would tend to make marriage more of a permanent thing it was in those old days. If courting was done as it used to be, there would be less courting at law. Divorces, and the unhappy marriages which are not dissolved in the courts are the result, in a great degree of sentimental courtship. We once heard a very countrified old lady lamenting the modern style. 'They didn't do so when Heman and I were courting she said, 'he sot on one side of the stove and I sot on 'tother and we talked about the farm.' Heman and Polly had too little sentiment, doubtless, but they arrived at such an understanding of the character and circumstances of each other that they lived together more than the allotted time of life without ever seeking to be divorced.

IRISH AMERICANS FOR BLAINE

A meeting of citizens of Irish extraction was held at the Emmet Guards armory yesterday for the purpose of organizing an Irish-American Blaine and Logan league. There were forty persons in attendance. The club was organized by the election of the following officers President, William Doolon vice president, D Cavanaugh secretary D J Buckley treasurer P Flinn. The following address was unanimously adopted

> Believing that the time has come when the Irish American citizens whom the democratic party always claim to hold under their thumb should assert not only their rights as loyal American citizens but also their independence and their best desire to aid with their vote and vot the perpetuation of the great principles on which the very foundation of our government is constructed we hereby pledge ourselves to aid by all honorable efforts in our power the election of James G. Blaine for president and John A. Logan for vice-president of these United States.
>
> The democratic party has always claimed to be the friend of the laboring class in general and the Irish in particular and yet at its last national convention it nominated Stephen Grover Cleveland a man whose every act is inimical to us and the laboring classes generally. He was nominated through the influence of those who have always been the foes of Ireland and the Irish and his advancement to the proud position of the chief magistrate of this nation would be a signal victory for those who have never lost sight of the opportunity to bound down any measure that has been advanced for the interest of our race and also for those who are ever seeking to despoil the laboring class among us of every right that is our due and enjoyment.
>
> We believe that no man who is known to be hostile to labor should ever be elevated to the presidency of this republic. This nation owes all that it is to her manly sons of toil to the man who build our cities and our towns the men who subjugate the wilderness train and rear it into a noble civilization and so far consummate the divine purposes of creation.
>
> We care nothing for what may be said by papers published in this country in British interest. Their puerile efforts to place our necks under the galling yoke of English monopoly, and English ideas cannot dim the lustre of our free institutions and in the election of Blaine and Logan we see that American ideas and principles must dominate, and that the humblest of our citizens can claim the full protection of our flag in every quarter of the globe.
>
> Can we expect this in the election of Stephen Grover Cleveland?
>
> We can not.
>
> Why?
>
> While governor of the state of New York he vetoed every bill passed by the legislature that had for its object the advancement of labor and seeking to ameliorate the condition of the laboring class. Among such bills vetoed by him were
>
> The five cent fare bill
>
> The horse car conductor and driver bill
>
> The child labor bill
>
> The park keepers bill
>
> The mechanics lien bill, and others.
>
> Can a man who by his act in vetoing such measures as these prove himself to be a proper person to be president of this republic? We say No a thousand times No.
>
> A traitor to every alleged principle of the democratic party he is for the first time upon the laboring classes that have affiliated with that party, and their voice demanded for a man who is recreant to every principle of honesty and reform, is found arrayed against those whose suffrage he and his party now ask and working hand and hand with those who seek always to oppress and embitter the life of those who labor that they may live.

Due notice of the next meeting of the league will be given in the OREGONIAN and all Irishmen and sons of Irishmen are invited to be present.

THE STATE AGRICULTURAL COLLEGE

To THE EDITOR OF THE OREGONIAN

The status of the Oregon state agricultural college is far from satisfactory to its patrons. It is taught in connection with Corvallis college and Corvallis college is a denominational school in every sense in which McMinnville college or Willamette university is denominational. It is owned and controlled by the Methodist Episcopal church south. The agricultural college being merged in a denominational school, it comes under denominational influences, and in some degree it must be denominational. It seems to many who are deeply interested in the success of the agricultural college to be both unwise and unjust for our state to connect it with a denominational school. I object because this institution receives annually the interest on $72 000 the proceeds of the sale of state lands and in addition to this the legislature at its last session made an additional appropriation annually of $5,000. [illegible]

The gloomy fears the desponding views the weariness of soul that many complain of, would often disappear were the blood made pure and healthy before reaching the delicate vessels of the brain. Ayer's sarsaparilla purifies and vitalizes the blood, and thus conduces to health of body and sanity of mind.

PRESIDENTIAL CAMPAIGN.

A Preacher's Views Upon the Candidates and their Characters.

A BAD LIFE ONLY ONE GIGANTIC JOKE.

Rev. F. R. Marvin's First Sermon After his Summer Vacation—Civil Service Reform—The Prohibition Ticket—The Duty of Voting.

Rev. Frederic R. Marvin preached for the first time after the summer vacation yesterday in the First Congregational church. He chose for his subject "Lessons to be Derived from the Presidential Campaign." He spoke as follows:

Mere outward obedience to the letter of the law, nor yet the scrupulous observance of the inner spirit covers all the requirements of scripture in the matter under consideration. We are bound to regard ... public men with serious and respectful consideration. And here it seems to me we ... as a nation violate the spirit of the 13th chapter of Romans. Are we careful to render honor in our public prints and public speeches to whom honor is due? Do we observe the spirit of the golden rule in our treatment of the private character of public men? Every four years we are called upon to choose a president, and I know nothing that choice implies few ... consider. There are 80,000 minor offices ... by party patronage in the United States and so long as the principle "to the victors belongs the political spoils" prevails in this country 80,000 men must be turned out of office and 80,000 put in with every change in the national administration. Our population is increasing every year and in a few years the 80,000 will have become 100,000. Is there any reason for all this? When a man makes a good postmaster or a good custom house officer I hold that it is none of business what his politics are. So long as he discharges his duty in a satisfactory manner he has a perfect right as an American citizen to think, speak and vote as he pleases.

The only remedy I see for all this enormous abuse of power is in the civil service reform, and the sooner we come to that reform the better for us. Do you not see that 80,000 offices are at stake in a single presidential election, and so long as that is so party feeling must, in the very nature of things, get the better of good judgment and right conduct. What has come of all this? No man can go to the White House who is unwilling to have his private character put up as a target for scandal and all manner of vituperation. See what a spectacle this nation presents to the civilized world! Here we have offered to us by the two great political parties two candidates, each party pronouncing the candidate offered by the other a man socially corrupt in every fiber of his nature through and through.

Governor St. John's character remains untouched simply because his constituency is not strong enough to render him dangerous to either of the two great parties in the field. The 80,000 officers and their friends and all the men who want to become officeholders—a vast army that no man can count—are of course personally interested in whatever hurts the fortunes of one candidate and helps those of the other. And now see the injury done to the young by the ruthless assaults made upon the private characters of public men. Young men come up to believe that the way to succeed is to be bad. Illustrated comic papers such as Puck, the Judge and the Wasp make thievery and every kind of rascality funny. We laugh over vice and crime, and see in a bad life only one gigantic joke. Are we a carrion nation feeding upon corruption? What has been said is not intended as a defense of either candidate but as a rebuke to that abominable and contemptible spirit which by slander and calumny and every species of political trickery and filth destroys without compunction private character in the interest of an accursed greed for place and pay. Of course I have my own opinion, and in all probability shall vote as I always have with the republican party, but I am far from believing that my own or any other party is guiltless in this matter. I do urge upon you, be your party what it may, the duty of following ... the spirit of Jesus as found in the New Testament—"Do unto others as you would have them do unto you."

I wish to say a word or two about prohibition. The friends of that movement have organized a party and have asked us to vote for ex-Governor St. John of Kansas, and it is understood that electoral tickets will be presented in every state in the union. We can not but respect the principles and purposes of the prohibition party and Governor St. John is a good man worthy of all support. His party will poll a larger vote this year than ever before. In 1880 it had 10,305 votes. This year it may more than double that, but it will fail. The prohibition ticket has not the ghost of a chance. Every vote taken from the republican party for the prohibition cause will be wasted. I believe in temperance. I will work for it when I can do so, but to give it my vote in this campaign is to do it no good and to throw my vote away. I can not see that prohibition is a question that is under the control of congress. It seems to me that it must be settled by the states in their exercise of sovereignty. Our constitution does not give it to the national government. Congress might legislate for the District of Columbia and for the territories, and the power must end there. But would it not be a strange sight to see congress permitting the sale of whisky in Oregon and prohibiting it in the incoming state of Dakota? I do not like to see the prohibitionists call, as they do, for the abolition of all revenues on alcohol and tobacco. The prohibitionist says, "Prohibition or free whisky." That in my mind is absurd. We want whatever protection we can get against the demon of strong drink.

Some of us live in hope of seeing the time when presidential campaigns will not come round so often. We should like to see our chief magistrate elected for six or eight years, with no opportunity for re-election. We should like to so arrange matters that no chance of a second term could persuade a president to spend his first four years in wire pulling for a second four. Instead of believing in a third term I do not like a second, but I would lengthen the first and make it the only term. The frequency of presidential elections is a positive damage to us all. It throws us all into uncertainty. It hurts trade and commerce and gives rise to an incalculable amount of intemperance and gambling. No one can ever know the large sums of money that will be staked upon the result of the election.

"I am very anxious all the members of this church should realize their duty and go to the polls. At the last presidential election in 1880 it was estimated that in the state of New York nearly 400,000 voters staid away from the polls and those for the most part represented the better elements of society. At the same election in Pennsylvania more than 200,000 voters made no appearance at the polls. In Ohio 100,000 remained away. If we neglect our duty we cannot complain when bad men are elected to office. We have a glorious country. Let us be true to every call of duty. Let us remember that upon the faithful discharge of duty must rest the future of the land we love so well."

At the close of the sermon Mr. Marvin called upon the congregation to stand and sing the national anthem "America."

RACES AT CITY VIEW.

Interesting Half-Mile Dash—A Trot that Ended in a Collision, and Dexter's Exercise on the Track.

Yesterday's races at City View park, taken altogether, were a dismal failure. People are learning that fair and interesting contests are the exception and in consequence a slim crowd was in attendance. The management had advertised that the races would begin at 2 o'clock sharp, but it was nearly 4 o'clock before they began. This is the usual thing at this track, and it looks very much as if the delay was arranged to hold the crowd and allow it to deposit its spare coin with Captain Schneider's bar.

The first event was the only interesting contest of the day. George Winters and Ben Butler were entered for a half mile dash. Pool selling opened quite tame, with Winters the favorite, but later pools sold even and bidding became comparatively spirited.

The horses were neck and neck when they were tapped off and ran in this position to the five-eighths. Here Butler took the lead, but was overtaken at the last quarter by Winters, and from there to the wire was run as pretty a dash as anyone could wish to see. Winters, however, slowly fought his way to the lead and passed under the wire a good length ahead. Time, 51¼.

THE TROT.

This race was between Florence E. and Kelly, mile heats, best three in five, for a purse of $100. In the pool selling Saturday night Florence E. was favorite. Yesterday, however, they opened even and finally Kelly became the favorite, two to one. There was a rumor among the crowd that the race was all fixed, but pool selling was so erratic that it was hard for the knowing ones to determine which horse was predestined to win.

The trotters were sent away to a beautiful start with Kelly on the inside. At the turn Florence E. shot ahead and stole the pole from Kelly, who fell to the rear about two lengths. In this position the horses trotted admirably to the half, after which Kelly slowly lessened the distance between himself and the mare. Coming down the home stretch the horse made a rush for first place, but broke inside the distance pole, allowing Florence E. to win easily in 2:36½.

Those who expected to see the mare sell better in the pools, on account of winning the first heat, were surprised and disappointed as Kelly became a greater favorite than ever, and it was almost impossible to find any one willing to risk money against him.

Florence now had the pole, and when the turn was reached Kelly's driver tried to pay back his opponent by stealing the pole. This was disastrous to him. For a few yards the wheels of the sulkies ran perilously close, and the crowd held their breath. Then there came a crash, and when the dust had cleared away it was seen that Kelly's sulky had lost a wheel. The mare jogged on around the track, and the horse was taken to the stables unhurt. The heat and race were given to Florence E. It seemed to be the general opinion that this was the only way in which Florence could have won.

DEXTER'S TROT AGAINST TIME.

The next and last event was Dexter's attempt to beat B. B.'s time of 2:21½. He was to have three trials, with a running mate hitched to a sulky. The first and second heats were trotted without the mate.

Misner nodded to the judges for a start, but they failed to see him, and the word was not given. Nevertheless he put Dexter around, though a good portion of the distance was made on the run. The time was as follows: Quarter 34¼, half 1:10, three-fourths 1:47, mile 2:24.

The second heat was made as follows: Quarter ... , half 1:11, three-fourths 1:47, mile ... .

At this stage there was a dispute as to whether the first trial should be counted as a heat, ending in the ... leaving the stand.

The third attempt was made with a running mate as follows: Quarter 35¾, half 1:11, three-fourths 1:48, mile 2:29.

As it was becoming late the dispute was finally dropped, the horses were taken to the stables and the disgusted crowd started for the city.

RATHDRUM, I. T., Aug. 28.

To the Editor of the Oregonian:

In your issue of the 24th inst. there appears an item under "Cowardly Assault," which, to say the least, is largely exaggerated. The facts are that James Madigan is about eighty pounds heavier than George McCabe, and when they met in Harry Gordon's saloon on the evening of the 20th inst. Mr. Madigan maliciously struck the little man McCabe and knocked him down. The cowardly assault spoken of was simply a renewed attack of Mr. McCabe, who is here ready to meet any charges whatsoever. He owns the Rathdrum and Coeur d'Alene stage line and is one among our most civil, energetic and esteemed citizens.

BURGLAR SHOT.

About 1 o'clock this morning a report was received by telephone at the police station that a burglar had been shot by Dr. Pilkington at his residence, in South Portland. Policeman Nash, accompanied by a reporter of THE OREGONIAN, obtained a hack and started for the scene. At the St. George hotel they were joined by Dr. James Browne, who came to the city to bring the news, and Policeman Branch and Reyers. Arrived at Dr. Pilkington's the report was found to be true in every particular. From the doctor's own statement the following facts were obtained:

The doctor, whose bedroom is at the end of a long hallway, was awakened a few minutes after midnight by the clicking of the latch of the bedroom door. The sound was loud and clear enough to arouse every perception of the sleeper, still the door did not open, and the doctor slipped out of bed and took up a shotgun loaded with buckshot which was standing in the room. The latch again clicked as if some one had released the handle, and the doctor sprang to the door and throwing it open stepped into the hall.

He saw a dark form at the other end of the hallway and fancied there was a threatening movement as of pointing a pistol at him. He ordered the form to stand still, and when it did not do so but seemed to be coming toward him he raised his gun and fired.

The doctor's wife, who just at this minute remembered that their son was not at home that night, and thinking he might have come in without awakening his parents, shrieked loudly as he shot was fired, "You have killed our boy." The doctor reassured his wife and ran into the hall to investigate. He stumbled over the body of a man, and falling upon his hands felt them slip along the floor in warm blood. Striking a light he saw a man of medium stature and build, red headed and with a red mustache, lying face downward with the blood flowing from his back.

Examination showed that the charge of buckshot was scattered over a space ten inches square, the principal part of the charge being between the shoulder blades. The man immediately asked for a priest, and Father Orth was summoned by Dr. Browne, who lives in the neighboring house and who afterward informed the police.

Father Orth prepared the man, who was of the Catholic faith, for death. The father stated afterward to the reporter that the man did not tell his name or where he was from, and that what he did say must for the present remain a secret of the confessional. Dr. Pilkington expressed it as his opinion that the wound was a fatal one. The man was placed on top the hack, for he could not sit up, and was brought to the police station, where a surgeon was summoned to dress the wound.

An examination of the doctor's premises shows that the burglar entered the house by one of the front bay windows. When first shot he told the doctor he had a confederate, but afterwards refused to say anything about it.

The burglar's feet were swathed in towels so that he could walk without noise.

THE EAST SIDE.

ASSAULT AT ALBINA.

W. T. Golden and Joseph R. Truman, next door neighbors on Russell street, Albina, have not been on the best of terms for some time past, owing, it is said, to some unruly chickens that refused to observe the line of demarcation that divided the back yards. Several broils have ensued in consequence, but no hostile demonstrations occurred until yesterday morning. Golden had removed from the house the night before, but concluded yesterday to go and settle the old score with Truman, being no doubt moved thereto by the spirit within him. In pursuance of this design, he engaged Truman in a wordy war, soon following it up with knocks and kicks that sent Truman to grass, and caused him to seek redress through Justice Coleman's court of East Portland. M. P. Culver was deputized to make the arrest forthwith, and proceeded to do so. He found Golden and his son W. F. Golden in front of their residence, and upon stating the objects of his mission they each stoutly resisted his efforts to make the arrest. Truman, who was present with a friend named Smith, kept the son at bay for a few minutes while the officer grappled with the father, whom he got down, and would probably have succeeded in getting the darbies on him had not the son beaten off his adversaries with a huge club and come to his rescue. The officer consequently had to release his hold of the father to protect himself from the son, and both finally escaped into the house. The officer, however, stayed with the game till the son, evidently repenting of his lawlessness, gave a bond in the sum of $..5 for the appearance of his father before Justice Coleman this morning at 9 o'clock.

BURGLARS AGAIN.

There appears to be no let up to the petty burglaries that have been committed in East Portland for some time past. Four more are reported to have occurred on Friday night last. The bed room of S. DeClarke on Fourth street was visited and the noise awoke Mrs. DeClarke, who aroused her husband, but he was too slow to catch on. Next morning he found his pants pocket minus $9 50. The residences of G. Williams on Fifth street, north of the bridge over Sullivan's gulch, H. B. Harris, corner of Ninth and J streets, and Thomas Hislop, Asylum street, between Fifth and Sixth, were also visited, but in each case the visitors were routed before committing any depredations. A dark lantern, it is said, was used by those visiting Mr. Williams' place. It is strange when so much is seen, so little is done by citizens whose houses are visited. They must either be very timid or very sluggish.

PORTLAND ROWDIES AGAIN.

There appears to be a determined effort by certain rowdies of Portland to thwart Mr. Hoffman's design in running the Willamette park in a respectable manner. Another gang was over yesterday, one of whom, after gaining entrance to the park, endeavored to pick a row with Hoffman, but the latter summarily ejected him along with his companions. Upon gaining the sidewalk, however, he threw off his coat and challenged Hoffman to mortal conflict, using the vilest language in the hearing of passers by, at the same time being egged on by his companions. Hoffman allowed him to bluster for the time being, but will retaliate to-day with the state to back him. Hoffman is doing all in his power to run an orderly and respectable resort, and deserves adequate protection against the element that seems determined to injure him.

Particulars of the Embezzlement and Flight of W. D. Pittenger.

THE AFFAIR WORSE THAN AT FIRST THOUGHT.

Several Persons Crippled Financially by too Much Confidence in Man—Nothing Heard of the Missing Merchant.

The embezzlement and flight of W. D. Pittenger, ex-county treasurer and merchant of Hillsboro, have thrown the people of Washington county into as great a state of excitement as the Ward affair created in New York. It is the general topic of conversation. In every town and village men congregate and talk, and anxiously inquire for the latest particulars, while lawyers and creditors are on the fly, searching for some bit of drift from the wreck that will in a measure secure the losses. Men who have toiled for years in the work of acquiring a competency now see the fruits of their labor swept away, and themselves financially crippled or wrecked.

As a matter of course public sentiment is strong against the man who caused this, and there is a general demand for his capture and punishment, though his whereabouts is still unknown.

That before Pittenger left town he borrowed $40 from some acquaintances, all the money they had about them at the time. He then crossed the railroad track and walked across the bottoms to where a wagon was awaiting him. It is generally believed that he started for British Columbia, though a few think he is hiding in the mountains, and some are of the opinion that he has committed suicide. Opinion is also divided as to what amount of money he has secured in his flight. Many believe that he has thousands of dollars deposited somewhere, though persons in a position to know are of the belief that bad management crippled him and led to his misappropriation of state and county funds.

Time serves to show that the affair is even worse than at first reported in the OREGONIAN, the amount of taxes embezzled amounting to $22,000. This is secured to the state and county by bonds of $30,000 on men worth more than the sum missing. These are Dr. F. A. Bailey, County Commissioner Conrad Schulmerich and T. A. Tongue.

Pittenger's term of office expired July 1. He gave his statement to the county clerk, for submission to the county court about that time, according to which his books balanced to a cent, but failed to produce receipts from the state treasurer for $14,000, state taxes reported paid. The clerk asked for the vouchers and Pittenger replied that they were at his house, and he would bring them up the next day. The clerk then submitted the report to the court, who apparently had perfect confidence in Pittenger's integrity, as they accepted it, though the bondsmen were not released, no request to that effect being made.

Mr. Waggener, the new treasurer, then took charge of the books, and all apparently was correct. A few days ago, however, the present treasurer received a letter from the state treasurer with a request that he remit taxes on hand at once. This was a puzzle to Waggener and he replied, asking how much was due. The answer came like a thunderbolt, showing that Pittenger had failed to pay taxes recently collected to the amount of $14,000. The books were at once submitted to A. W. Llewellyn, ex-county clerk, who discovered another deficit of $8000 adroitly concealed by a system of false figures. A warrant was at once issued for Pittenger's arrest, but, aided by a few bosom friends, he had made his escape.

Pittenger's liabilities are roughly estimated at from $50,000 to $60,000. The nominal assets are about $40,000, actual assets $25,000. All his property, including $12,000 worth of realty, estate mortgaged for $5000, two stocks of goods, one at Hillsboro and the other on Gales creek, and outstanding accounts, were conveyed to his bondsmen before his departure. The creditors, however, will contest this conveyance, and have attached the property. A long fight may be expected on this point. If the bondsmen lose the case it may result in the business wreck of one or two of them, though Dr. Bailey can stand his loss with little inconvenience. T. H. Tongue, a reporter learned, is also on Pittenger's paper for about $5000.

Mr. Will Weatherred, Pittenger's former partner, it is feared, will be a heavy loser. The missing man owed him several thousand dollars, and the accounts of the old firm have been attached. Mr. Weatherred was at the seaside when the affair culminated, but was telegraphed for at once. He has an interest in the drug store of Ransom & Co., which has been attached by Pittenger's creditors, resulting in the closing of the store. It will probably be opened in a few days, however. The defaulter's store at Hillsboro is being conducted by his bondsmen.

A number of people who placed implicit confidence in him, lose their savings. There is no bank at Hillsboro and he had charge of a number of trust funds. These, so far as learned, include sums of from $100 to $400. The Hillsboro lodge of Masons loses $350.

Great sympathy is expressed by all for the unfortunate family of the runaway. Mrs. Pittenger is completely prostrated by the shock.

Pittenger has been doing business for years in Washington county, and was long considered one of the solid men of the county. His store was apparently doing a big business, but many bad debts were carried, and to this is ascribed the present wreck.

It is said that the county court will give the bondsmen time to raise the amount embezzled, and will borrow the $14,000 due the state, which must be remitted at once, in order to save costs.

The above facts were obtained by an OREGONIAN reporter who was sent to Washington county Saturday, and are the statements of different residents of Hillsboro.

PARIS, Aug 30.—The minister of marine has received the following from Admiral Courbet:

MIN RIVER, Aug [illegible] P M

Thanks for the expression of esteem [illegible] the part of the government. I cannot [illegible] warmly praise the officers and crews. Operations on the [illegible] river are concluded, and they were attended with complete success. All the batteries along the river were destroyed, and most of the cannon exploded with gun cotton. We were obliged to leave some intact because the men in order to reach them would have been exposed to a heavy musketry fire, to which no reply would have been possible. All our ships left Min river to-day and several have already reached Ma Sou at anchorage. I shall arrive there to-morrow with the Duguay and the Trouin. The latter has served as my flagship since Monday. Our losses during the week were ten killed, including one officer, and thirteen seriously and twenty eight slightly wounded. In the Mingan and Kinpan channels were several batteries, two of these clad from twelve to thirty centimeters thick with plates of sheet iron bolted together. The calibres of the Chinese [illegible] ranged from fourteen to twenty one centimeters.

Minister Ferry sent the following to Courbet: The country which hailed you a victor at Bonta, is now your debtor for another deed. The government of the republic is happy to express the nation's gratitude to your admirals' bravery and their glorious leader."

LEAVING CANTON

SHANGHAI, Aug 29.—All the French have left Canton. It is now asserted that Admiral Courbet left Min river with the intention of going to Canton. Chinese military commanders everywhere received an imperial order to attack all French war ships and merchant vessels which attempt to enter leading treaty ports. Those in port were ordered to leave immediately. Telegrams for the Chinese government lines are not accepted unless written in English.

CHINA NOT ANXIOUS FOR PEACE

LONDON, Aug 30.—The Pall Mall Gazette says: "There is not the slightest foundation for the report that China wishes to come to an agreement with France. The Chinese consider the Foo Chow affair as an act of treachery on the part of Courbet, who took advantage of the privilege accorded war ships to enter Chinese ports. The barbarity of his continuing to fire hours after the Chinese vessels had ceased is the cause for intense excitement against Europeans."

GENERAL MILLOT RELIEVED

PARIS, Aug 30.—General Millot asked to be relieved from command of the French forces in Tonquin, on the ground of ill health. The government consented, and appointed General Briere Delisle to succeed him.

THE EFFECT ON AMERICAN COMMERCE

WASHINGTON, Aug 30.—[Special]—The general impression among officials here who are supposed to have information on the subject is that the Franco-Chinese war will have a very great effect on American commerce. The fact that the United States is the least likely of any other nation to become involved in any complications growing out of the war will, it is thought, be of immense advantage to American steamship companies because the probability of other nations becoming involved in war will cause insurance companies to charge higher rates on goods shipped in vessels sailing under any other flag than they will on American ships. The transfer of a large fleet of vessels engaged in the coasting trade in China to Russell & Company of New York from whom the Chinese government purchased a fleet some time ago, indicates that the Chinese government takes this view of the matter. A prominent naval official said to your correspondent to-day that a very interesting question will probably arise out of this transfer. Under the American shipping law no vessel is allowed to sail under the American flag between the United States and foreign ports unless such vessel is built in the United States and the question which is likely to arise is whether the United States will extend the protection of its flag to a vessel trading in Chinese waters while it refuses to extend the same protection to its own citizens who ship their goods to foreign ports in foreign built vessels.

EGYPT

ENGLAND'S ASSUMPTION

PARIS, Aug 30.—The Republique Francaise says: "The mission of Lord Northbrook and Gen Wolseley to Egypt is a challenge to Europe and a public assumption that England has exclusive power in Egypt. Has England considered her strength?" that paper asks, before taking so grave a step? It is to be noted that Egypt formed the substance of the recent conference at Varzin between Bismarck and Baron De Courcel, French ambassador to Germany.

RUSSIA

ATTEMPT TO SHOOT AN OFFICER.

ODESSA, Aug 30.—The details of the attempted shooting a few days ago of Col Kitansky which General Dugna of this city had hitherto suppressed are now public. The motive leading the young woman Marie Kalinsmaja to attempt the desperate deed was a desire for revenge. Kitansky had sentenced her brother, a member of a revolutionary society, to penal servitude for life. The girl entered Kitansky's private room and twenty minutes later drew a revolver and fired point blank at the officer. The bullet grazed his ear and before she could fire again Kitansky seized the weapon and placed the young woman under arrest.

The pope reminds France that he has already frequently admonished the people against laws contrary to the church passed by their rulers. CALIFORNIA

O R & N Employes Resist a Reduction.

SAN FRANCISCO, Aug 30.—[Special.]—A report was current on the street yesterday that all the employes of the Oregon Railway and Navigation Company on the wharf at the foot of Spear street had determined to resign on the 1st of September except two in view of the contemplated reduction in wages deemed necessary by the falling off of the company's receipts. Inquiries at the wharf failed to elicit any information upon this point as the men uniformly refused to answer questions put to them. From other sources it was learned however that a reduction of 10 per cent on salaries and wages had been ordered all around among the company's employes both on sea and ashore with the exception of those in the engineer's department on account of a falling off of over 40 per cent in the company's receipts owing to loss of business caused by the completion of the Northern Pacific.

Later it was learned that Goodall, Perkins & Co acting as superintendent of the ocean division of the Oregon Railway and Navigation Company have received instructions from the management of the O R & N Co at Portland to reduce salaries 10 per cent on steamers plying between here and Portland, viz: the Columbia, the Oregon and the State of California. In accordance with these instructions an order was issued yesterday to the officers and crew of the State of California, which is to sail Monday, but resistance to the order was so great that all were shipped at the old salaries.

Accidental Death of a Former Portlander

SAN FRANCISCO, Aug. 30.—[Special.]—A dispatch from Yreka says: "A messenger has just arrived from the geological surveyor's camp in Antelope valley, on the north side of Mount Shasta, bringing intelligence of the death of one of the surveyors named Pomeroy, of San Francisco, aged 37 years. His horse coming into camp created suspicion of some accident, and after a search of two days his body was found, with a shot through the stomach. His gun saddle and bridle could not be found when the messenger left, and it is not known whether he was accidentally killed or not. The coroner will at once leave for the place, over forty miles from here, and a full investigation will be made. The young man was greatly respected by all. There are various theories concerning the manner of his death, none of which has an authoritative foundation. The remains will be brought here for transmission to San Francisco." Young Pomeroy was a son of Professor Pomeroy of this city and is well known in Portland where he spent last winter in the service of the railroad company, and as an inmate of Mrs Hill's boarding house.

BRITISH COLUMBIA.

Trains Wrecked by a Collision

VICTORIA, Aug 30.—Thursday morning at 10.30 the regular train from Port Moody came into collision with a work train on a high trestle near Squakum lake. The engine and three cars heavily laden with [illegible] attached to the engine were thrown over the [illegible] a distance of twenty feet. Strange to relate, no one was hurt though some escapes were almost miraculous. It seems that the regular train was running within the limits assigned to the working train, and should have sent a man ahead to flag the latter. This was not done and there was a smash-up, involving the loss of $30,000. The engine lies bottom up in the mud badly damaged, while report says the cars are totally demoralized. The engine of the working train is somewhat damaged, but did not leave the track. There will doubtless be an investigation and the "some one that blundered" will lose his head.

POLITICAL POINTS

FROM THE "SUN"

NEW YORK, Aug. 29.—[Special.] The Sun says: We reprint a part of the address delivered by Grover Cleveland at the laying of the cornerstone of the Young Men's Christian Association at Buffalo two years ago. Cleveland was then mayor. The theme of Cleveland's remarks was the direct connection between private morality and pure honest administration of public affairs. On this point it will be observed that he advanced ideas quite opposite to those expressed by Mr Hendricks who says in effect that the public welfare requires that a candidate be judged by his public record only."

The Sun also printed a leader yesterday from the Congregationalist which says: "The condition of the present campaign has rendered clear the obligation of Christian men in one respect at least. They may not be decided yet for whom to vote or to vote at all, but it is the duty of every good man and every good citizen to do his best to defeat corruption in both public and private relations of life and especially that teaching that it is no matter what a man's personal moral are if he be publicly above reproach. This should encounter such prompt unanimous and emphatic condemnation that any body ever again shall dare even to whisper such scandalous theories."

VIRGINIA REPUBLICAN CONVENTION

PETERSBURG, Va., Aug 30.—After Col [illegible] Brady was nominated by the regular republican convention he was waited upon by the committee and informed of his nomination. He came into the convention at half past 2 this morning amid a storm of applause. In accepting the nomination Brady wanted it distinctly understood that he was a personal friend of Mahone and wanted no one to vote for him (Brady) unless he was a friend of Mahone. Brady said the men who raised the cry of political machine methods were those who were indebted to Mahone for all they had. There was a man who holds a high position in this state whose name he would not call who raised the cry of boss rule and political machine methods who was indebted to Mahone for all he was worth. The party whom Brady referred to was Governor Cameron. The best pledge Brady had to make to his colored friends was his past record.

NOTES FROM NEW YORK

NEW YORK, Aug 30.—[Special.]—A special to the Tribune from Washington says: There is general complaint at the headquarters of the campaign committees of both parties here of a want of funds but according to the secretary of the democratic congressional committee the independent organization of New York have a large purse and is using money in a liberal manner pursuing the same machine tactics which they condemn.

The Star says: The executive committee of the Irish-American independents held a meeting last evening. The general sentiment was that the Academy of Music meeting a failure. It was decided in order to emphasize these sentiments to call another meeting at an early date.

NEW YORK GREENBACKERS

NEW YORK, Aug 30.—The state convention of the greenback labor party opened at Masonic temple this morning. George A Jones, chairman of the state central committee called the meeting to order. About 150 delegates and half as many spectators were present. In his address Jones said: "Time is dissolving the old parties and the time is coming when people will be placed in power that will put in circulation money enough to enable a man to be his own master. Both the democratic and republican parties made workingmen slaves and it depends upon themselves. The national party represents the advancing civilization of this age." Alden Spencer was made temporary chairman, and the usual committees named.

MAHONE IN A BAD BOX.

NEW YORK, Aug 30.—[Special.]—The Post's Washington special says: Republican affairs in Virginia have about reached a crisis. Northern republicans give Mahone notice that unless he restores harmony between not only the republicans and the readjusters but among the filibusters themselves neither of the republican committees will waste time or money upon the state. A reporter learned at the national republican headquarters this evening that Mahone has made another demand for $10,000. His letter breathed despondency and declared that less would not meet the emergency.

CRIMINAL CALENDAR

OUTRAGED BY A NEGRO BOY

BALTIMORE, Aug 30.—[Special.]—Prince George's county is excited over an assault committed by a negro boy upon Lizzie, the 12 year old daughter of George Bladen, a well known farmer near Bowie station. The negro met her walking with her sister in the woods a mile from the house and pursued them. The younger sister reached the house and notified her father who sprang on a horse, leaped the fence and while riding at the top of his speed the saddle girth broke but without stopping he let the saddle [illegible] from under him and kept on [illegible] a mile down the road and came across the child badly injured and was taken home. Mr Bladen found the negro at his grandfather's house and pitched battle ensued, the boy a powerful lad trying to stab his captor. He was finally secured and taken before a magistrate and committed. The [illegible] great [illegible] with the colored people [illegible] [illegible] and it is as much as can be done to keep them from lynching the boy.

INDICTED FOR POLYGAMY

PRESCOTT, A T, Aug 30.—The United States grand jury in court in the Third judicial district of this territory have presented seven indictments for polygamy under the Edmunds bill. These are the first ever found in Arizona and there is great excitement among Mormon and Gentile circles in consequence. The Mormons regard it as due to the influence of Chief Justice Sumner Howard, formerly United States district attorney of Utah and prosecutor of John D Lee for the Mountain Meadow massacre. Open warfare will probably result in Apache county over it.

ACCIDENTS.

TERRIBLE RAILROAD DISASTER

WHEELING, W Va, Aug 30.—Thursday night at 11 o'clock a freight train on the Cleveland, Lorain and Wheeling railroad with engine No 4, when near Stillwater jumped the track turning almost completely over wrecking the fourteen cars and killing John Eaton, engineer and James B[illegible], brakeman. The engine was twisted and broken into a shapeless mass. The tender was on top of the engine. The engineer was found seated on his cushion bent forward with his arms over the top of his head held firmly to the ground by the top of the cab. One leg was cut off and driven into the soft ground. He moved twice after they had reached the engine and then died. The brakeman who was riding on the engine at the time the accident occurred was found back of the engine held tight by the weight of a part of the cab and imbedded to his waist in cordwood that was stacked beside the track for shipment. He begged piteously to be released and told two men who were working to release him from his burning prison to kiss his babies for him and to tell his wife that his last breath went out in prayer for her and the little ones. With their best efforts it took an hour to get them out. He was carried to the station and died at 2 o'clock.

THE PREMATURE TORPEDO EXPLOSION

NEW YORK, Aug 29.—[Special.]—Newport reporters furnish additional details of the premature torpedo explosion yesterday. The president and party witnessed with interest from the deck of the Triana the launching of the first Spear torpedo containing thirty two pounds of gun cotton. The first was successful. The second one was gently lowered into the water and the steamer headed for a safe distance. A few seconds after it was submerged there was a terrific explosion and everybody was startled. Lieutenant Totten in charge of the battery said he had not fired it and it was subsequently ascertained that the battery exploded itself. The president and everybody felt they had had a narrow escape and were truly thankful that the torpedo did not explode when on deck. Mrs Senator Hawley the only lady on board was very much excited.

THE RECENT STORMS.

THE GREAT STORM IN INDIANA

EVANSVILLE, Ind, Aug 30.—Details of the great storm are coming in slowly. There was great destruction near Harrisburg. At Carmi, Grayville, Mt Vernon, Uniontown and Henderson houses, timber and crops were destroyed, all in this section. But one life is reported lost here as yet. SOUTH AMERICA

THE SITUATION IN PERU

PANAMA, Aug 29.—[Special.]—The Star and Herald's Peruvian advices give the political situation at that date. Caceres was marching on Lima with 3000 men. He has issued a summons to officers now obeying the orders of General Iglesias to come over to him within a fortnight under pain of being cashiered. The government at Lima has 4000 men well equipped, drilled and amply supplied with ammunition. Opinion seems almost universal here that these soldiers are not to be confided in. The great popularity of Caceres is too powerful to be overcome and it is believed that no fighting will take place. It is believed that Iglesias having complied with the duties imposed upon him by his position will patriotically retire and that Caceres will enter the city, handing over the government to General Iglesias, the legitimate president under constitutional rule.

A LUMINOUS SHRUB

The Wonderful Tree Described by a Tuscarora (Nev.) Reporter

Tuscarora Times Review

There is a most remarkable tree or shrub in a small gulch near some springs about two [illegible] miles north of Tuscarora. It is about six or seven feet in height with a trunk which at its base is three times the size of a man's wrist. It has innumerable branches and twigs [illegible] is a somewhat the barberry tree or bush indigenous to certain localities in the eastern states. But its only remarkable characteristic is its foliage which at certain seasons of the year is so luminous that it can be plainly distinguished in the darkest night for a distance of more than a mile. While in its immediate vicinity it emits sufficient light to enable a person to read the finest print. Its [illegible] is extremely rough and its leaves resemble somewhat in size shape and color those of the [illegible] bay tree of California. The luminous property is evidently parasitic and consists of a sort of gummy substance which upon being transferred by rubbing to a person's hand imparts to it the same apparently phosphorescent light while it at once the leaf entirely disappears. The only reasonable explanation for this phenomenon that we can imagine is that the leaves possess some quality which either generates or attracts phosphoric matter. The Indians regard it with superstition and will not approach it even in the daytime if they can possibly avoid it. They have a name for it which literally interpreted signifies "witch tree." An old Shoshone informed the writer that there were but two others in the entire country but the closest questioning failed to elicit the slightest information in regard to the localities. He would only shake his head gravely and ejaculate "bad medicine." We do not remember having read or heard of trees possessing this peculiarity before, nor do we imagine that the species is generally known to the scientific world. The specimen we have alluded to is well worth the attention of the naturalists of the Pacific coast.

Cotton Picking Machinery

Charleston News and Courier

The opening bolls will in a few weeks spread the snow of southern summers over our fields and before the close of the present month it is hoped that there will be abundant opportunity for the final test of the new harvester. Since the last crop was gathered no time has been lost and no endeavor has been spared by the company who owns the patents to prepare for this crop a machine which would satisfactorily do the work of picking the cotton from the plant and take the place of the expensive and tedious process of hand labor. Several machines of slightly varying styles have now been completed and are ready to straddle the cotton rows. At the close of the last season Mr Mason had succeeded in perfecting a machine which would pick out the open cotton without injury to the growing [illegible] and [illegible] cotton bolls.

This machine which was tested in [illegible] large numbers of planters [illegible] the principle which was to solve the great problem had been discovered. The mechanical application of the principle at that time was not perfectly satisfactory to Mr Mason. It was too complicated and costly and in other respects needed improvement. The conveyors which removed the cotton from the boxes where it is deposited by the picking stems were not of sufficient capacity to remove the cotton as fast as it was picked. To remedy the defects of construction and to simplify the machine has been the aim of Mr Mason's work during the past six months.

Say old fellow," said Tom to his friend Dick the other morning, "Is your new girl's father a republican, democrat or greenbacker?" "Well," replied Dick reflectively, "from the reception he awarded me last night I am rather inclined to think that he is the worst kind of a 'kicker.'" —Boston Post.

TRADE AND COMMERCE.

SATURDAY, Aug 30

The month of August witnessed a fair general trade. Supplies to last over the harvest season had been mostly purchased in July so that the August call embraced little of that class of buying. Harvesters have been steadily at work in the field doing very little hauling and selling. A backward wheat trade resulted because of this and because of low prices. The new month is expected to see a freer movement, but it will fall far below previous seasons because of the low values. Shippers have had no want [illegible] be filled and for September only two vessels are known to be chartered. One of these has cargo allotted, while the other has a part in sight. The limited [illegible] work against general trade and all branches must suffer at least for the time. Trading in wool will begin in September, but [illegible] is also expected to be slow [illegible] of the advantage just now in early drawing and sellers clinging to their prices will not be a firm one. There is little left of the wool clip to bring any more [illegible]. A large amount of money is also tied up in salmon [illegible] sale quite early [illegible]. All told the early fall months show little promise of activity and are expected to rule quiet. Overland arrivals for the week were [illegible] cases [illegible] yeast powder, 42 [illegible] kegs tobacco, [illegible] cigars, 21 half bbls [illegible] here. WHEAT—The British market has apparently reached a point the necessity of a halt if not an absolute check. The steady decline in values has received a less heed there from America but there is no saying what the next month will bring forth. To what extent [illegible] pressure will do with American [illegible] remains to be seen. The English operators [illegible] them [illegible] [illegible] what they did but the action with [illegible] reserves is now [illegible] But the English [illegible] doubtless calculating on a [illegible] over quantity far above actuality [illegible] visible supply are [illegible] alarming. Recent liberal shipments from Atlantic ports were largely [illegible] previous [illegible] account. What effect the recent drop of three or four shillings will have upon shipments is not yet made clear. The [illegible] may [illegible] at present prices a further decline may be had or speculation may step in [illegible] present prices to be low enough for speculative [illegible] The American [illegible] [illegible] urgent [illegible]

[illegible]

Valparaiso postal advices of June 23 report greatly reduced stocks of wheat over the country [illegible] export will probably fall considerably short of what [illegible] previously expected. Advices from Bombay up to [illegible] [illegible] plentiful fall of rain which put an end to the alarm [illegible] caused by previous drought and [illegible] any damage [illegible]. At Calcutta supplies of wheat were larger and prices somewhat easier in consequence.

Closing his fortnightly review of the British grain trade, H Kains-Jackson writes under date of August 6th:

Whatever may be the outcome of the English crop—and harvest in various districts are [illegible] in respect to the crop very variously—the importers want [illegible] [illegible] [illegible] stocks of the country [illegible]

[illegible]

[illegible] expectations were doubtless exaggerated, the ungenial weeks of April and June and damages in July from storms not being duly considered. Still a full yield is now having accidents well secured of wheat. Barley has greatly improved, oats remaining a poor crop. The early American wheat harvest promises to be succeeded by an early corn crop of which at this date an abundant yield is expected and with store sheep in the U K some 10s a head cheaper than in 1883 a good promise of green keep is inferred. That the sun is a good bread maker is likely to be again proved by 1884.

FLOUR—The situation is without change other than some of the brands recently selling for $4 50 have acknowledged the reduction made by others.

OATS—At the moment an advance upon 30 cents might be had but buyers refuse generally to go beyond this. Sales for forward delivery have been made at 27 cents, and few dealers look for any marked change either way. Supplies at present are light and will continue so until harvest is over.

PROVISIONS—Stocks of local have been reduced to almost nothing and several interior points report a lack of supplies. Eastern will necessarily be used until new comes in and the cheapness of feed stuff should largely increase the local output. Prices show no change and very slightly according to the time of sale. Bacon bellies at 14, local shoulders, 8@9c, eastern hams 1[illegible]@[illegible].

GREEN FRUIT—Stocks of leading varieties are large even excessive and there is little going to San Francisco. Shipments are steadily made eastward in spite of the small profits to be derived from the risks. Apples sell at 17½@30c for good to choice; pears at 60@75 [illegible]. Some [illegible] Bartletts [illegible] the stock [illegible] and the quality is generally excellent. With [illegible] of little preparation for local canning. Black grapes sell at $1 25 per box. Plums and prunes bring 75@90c but the request is only fair. Peaches sell at 60@70c. Melons are without change. Tropical fruits in a very light business at old prices.

BUTTER—Only in a small way is an advance to be had for the best California [illegible] of the market owing to high cost.

CHICKENS—A steady market is had at $5@[illegible] for old and $2 50@[illegible] for young.

EGGS—Stocks liberal but [illegible]c is had on all sides.

Pertinent Inquiries

Senator Hawley in his speech at Brooklyn a few days ago said:

I should like to know from Mr. Schurz if he were there at what particular period in the history of the republican party it would have been a good thing to have had the other party take its place. I would ask him whether it would have been at the beginning or at the middle or at the end of the war? Would it have been about the time when we had determined to prosecute the struggle which the democratic party denounced as a great mistake and a failure? Would it have been about the time when we were endeavoring to secure the results of the war by the great constitutional amendments [illegible] that the blood shed [illegible] war might not be waste. Would that have been a good time? They were against [illegible] [illegible] Would it have been a good time [illegible] universal suffrage [illegible] Would it have been a good time [illegible] when we were refusing [illegible] Would it have been a good time when we were establishing our system of national banks—the first time that we had any system of banking in the United States? Before that we had as many systems as there were states and paper money was [illegible] from [illegible] 100 cents on the dollar—resulting [illegible] [illegible] of the republican party. Would it have been a good time when [illegible] when it [illegible] General Grant [illegible] a monumental [illegible] in the United States [illegible] a quarter of [illegible] Would it have been a good time to suffer that corrupt [illegible] when we elected James A. Garfield? Sure [illegible] it would [illegible] have been a good time when we we elected Mr Hayes, otherwise Mr Schurz would not have been secretary of the interior. I have forgotten under what president it was a good time, but there certainly were a few years when it would have been unwise to have had the interruption [illegible]

HAMBURG TEA.

Why is it so many people are never satisfied? Their homes are marvels of comfort and luxury, friends are generous and affectionate, they are educated and refined, capable not only of enjoying but of imparting happiness to others, yet they are dissatisfied, miserable and really without intending to do so make others unhappy. The trouble is they have bad livers and are always cross or they are bilious. A few doses of Frese's Hamburg Tea would remove all their troubles and enable them to enjoy with renewed zest the pleasures they are now compelled to forego.
